Alternative Gifts 2020/21

This leaflet provides you with a range of gifts that will provide satisfaction to the person for who you buy it – and joy to the children and young people supported by AGLMUK in Uganda. Instead of buying that voucher that you resort to when you don't know what else to buy why not simply make a donation that will buy something tangible in Uganda. This becomes your gift to your friend/relative who receives the pleasure of knowing that they have indirectly blessed someone in a very practical way.

The list of presents that we have identified as being particularly in demand at the moment is overleaf. We have provided a range of options in terms of pricing too. Things like torches and calculators might seem a little boring but they are a great blessing to those at school, most of whom live in dormitories where torches are invaluable. Toiletry packs and a supply of re-usable sanitary pads are another example of very practical items that are hugely appreciated. We know that mosquito nets significantly help prevent malaria but they are also highly unlikely to last a child in a packed dormitory more than a year or so. Shoes too do not last forever. Very few surfaces are smooth and cushioned in Ugandan schools and towns – and anyway children's feet grow! Another more than useful addition to a boarder's small list of possessions is a tin box (or suitcase they would call them). Whilst you might not have much it is much better if you have somewhere to store it! At the more expensive end of the range of presents are the "visit to an optician" and a dental filling. We realise that these might not appeal to too many UK based children/young people but these would be very much in the "luxury" category for many in Uganda. Go on, buy someone a visit to the dentist – they'll be mightily relieved that the present isn't for them!
